

How will all this work in practice

Students will easily authenticate themselves to Erasmus services using their eIDs and/or their institutional credentials, without having to create new account credentials. Information systems from higher education institutions and student service providers will verify the identity of the students as well as their academic affiliation in an automated way therefore decreasing workload on staff and increasing time availability of staff members to counsel (international) students.